

An Overview of Low Volatility Strategies

- Smart beta strategies, such as low volatility, aim to allow investors to modify their portfolios to better reflect their ongoing return-risk appetite in their strategic allocation.
- It is possible to build defensiveness into portfolios, while maintaining a degree of upside potential, by allocating part of the core allocation into low volatility strategies.
- SPDR® ETFs offer a suite of low volatility strategies that follow a simple, yet effective methodology.

SPDR ETFs

The investment objective of the SPDR® family of Low Volatility ETFs is to track the performance of US large cap (S&P 500) and eurozone (EURO STOXX) equity securities, which historically have exhibited low volatility characteristics.

- SPDR® S&P® 500 Low Volatility UCITS ETF The S&P 500 Low Volatility Index is designed to measure the performance of the 100 least volatile stocks within the S&P 500 Index. The Index employs a volatility-driven selection and weighting scheme. Volatility is measured by the standard deviation of a security's daily price returns over the prior 252 trading days.
- SPDR® EURO STOXX® Low Volatility UCITS ETF The EURO STOXX® Low Risk Weighted 100 Index represents the lowest volatility companies from the parent index, the EURO STOXX® Index. The EURO STOXX® Index is a broad benchmark index representing large, mid and small capitalisation companies of 12 eurozone countries: Austria, Belgium, Finland, France, Germany, Greece, Ireland, Italy, Luxembourg, the Netherlands, Portugal and Spain.

SPDR ETFs is the exchange traded funds ("ETF") platform of State Street Global Advisors and is comprised of funds that have been authorised by Central Bank of Ireland as open-ended UCITS investment companies. The funds are not available to US investors. SSGA SPDR ETFs Europe I plc and SPDR ETFs Europe II plc issue SPDR ETFs, and are open-ended investment companies with variable capital having segregated liability between their sub-funds. The Companies are organised as Undertakings for Collective Investments in Transferable Securities (UCITS) under the laws of Ireland and authorised as UCITS by the Central Bank of Ireland. ETFs trade like stocks, are subject to investment risk and will fluctuate in market value. The investment return and principal value of an investment will fluctuate in value, so that when shares are sold or redeemed, they may be worth more or less than when they were purchased. Although shares may be bought or sold on an exchange through any brokerage account, shares are not individually redeemable from the fund. Investors may acquire shares and tender them for redemption through the fund in large aggregations known as "creation units." Please see the fund's prospectus for more details. The views expressed in this material are the views of SPDR EMEA Strategy Team through the period ended 2 January 2025 and are subject to change based on market and other conditions. This document contains certain statements that may be deemed forward-looking statements. Please note that any such statements are not guarantees of any future performance and actual results or developments may differ materially from those projected. Investing involves risk including the risk of loss of principal. Investments in emerging or developing markets may be more volatile and less liquid than investing in developed markets and may involve exposure to economic structures that are generally less diverse and mature and to political systems which have less stability than those of more developed countries. Equity securities may fluctuate in value in response to the activities of individual companies and general market and economic conditions. Investing in foreign domiciled securities may involve risk of capital loss from unfavourable fluctuation in currency values, withholding taxes, from differences in generally accepted accounting principles or from economic or political instability in other nations. A Smart Beta strategy does not seek to replicate the performance of a specified cap-weighted index and as such may underperform such an index. The factors to which a Smart Beta strategy seeks to deliver exposure may themselves undergo cyclical performance. As such, a Smart Beta strategy may underperform the market or other Smart Beta strategies exposed to similar or other targeted factors. In fact, we believe that factor premia accrue over the long term (5–10 years), and investors must keep that long time horizon in mind when investing.

Volatility management techniques may result in periods of loss and underperformance may limit the Fund's ability to participate in rising markets and may increase transaction costs. Low volatility funds/stocks can exhibit relative low volatility and excess returns compared to the Index over the long term; both portfolio investments and returns may differ from those of the Index. The fund may not experience lower volatility or provide returns in excess of the Index and may provide lower returns in periods of a rapidly rising market. Active stock selection may lead to added risk in exchange for the potential outperformance relative to the Index.
